

'HOW RURAL TOTTENHAM DISAPPEARED'

210 mm x 148.5 mm (A5)
306 pages
Over 180 photographs, maps and plans
'Then and Now' photographs
Separate field, street and general indices
Perfect bound
28 Chapters
Full colour cover (right)
Forward by Deborah Hedgecock,
Curator, Bruce Castle Museum
ISBN 978-0-9553114-1-3

Between the junctions of White Hart Lane with Creighton Road in the east and Wolves Lane (and beyond) to the west, from Compton Crescent in the south to the Edmonton boundary in the north, and straddling the boundary of Tottenham and Wood Green, lay a patchwork of fields extending over some 250 acres which existed into the third decade of the 20th century. 'HOW RURAL TOTTENHAM DISAPPEARED' describes how within the course of a few years the area was transformed from a rural landscape into the urban environment of today.

'This book will encourage us all to take a second look at the landscape we have inherited and the stories we have been told. For Devonshire Hill and White Hart Lane, old hedgerows may have been replaced by trim garden hedges, but the shape and the names of roads, open spaces and buildings are all reminders of its significant architectural and rural past.'

Deborah Hedgecock, Curator
Bruce Castle Museum

CHAPTERS

Introduction	Rectory Farm
Early History	Tent Farm and Tentdale
Ownership and Administration	Potteries
Lanes and Roads	Industry
Rivers and Ponds	Public Housing
Commons and 'Wastes'	Public Housing Schemes
London County Council	Private Housing
Devonshire Hill (formerly Clay Hill)	Shops, Library and Places of Worship
Devonshire Lodge (formerly Clay Hill Lodge)	Schools
River House	Recreation
Devonshire Hill Farm	Services
Cottage Farm	Refuse Shoots
Pipers Court	War Time
The Rectory or Parsonage	What Might Have Been

HOW TO ORDER

The price of the book is £12 per copy and can be ordered by sending a cheque made payable to K. Barker and addressed to:

K. Barker
64 Morris Way
London Colney
Herts.
AL2 1JN

Price includes UK post and packing (overseas rates on application).
Orders will usually be dispatched within 48 hours by second class post.